J. Proctor Has Narrow Escape Of Drowning At Lake Near Zumbro

What was within an ace of being a serious tragedy was enacted at the lake one mile south of Zumbro last Friday afternoon when Jack Proctor went through the ice in midlake into some fifteen foot deep icy water.

A party, composed of Alex McRae, W. Wright, F. Wright and Jack Proctor were out to get some ducks. This lake at Zumbro having a stretch of open water largely patronized by the ducks attracted the party. On arrival they were successful in shooting a few. Whilst retrieving the game with the aid of a long pole, the ice suddenly gave way under Jack, and he was thrown into the water.

His comrades got more poles and rushed to his assistance, and after a long struggle with ice breaking at the edge, Jack was brought to the surface of the firmer ice.

At the Zumbro section house, Jack was furnished with a change of raiment by the foreman, and after a short rest the party returned home in good order, except for the loss of Jack's gun which still lays at the bottom of the lake.

If we were asked the question: "On what can I spend this $2.00 bill that will give me the greatest value in comfort and immensity requirement?" We would say: "A Hot Water Bottle!" You remember what you said at some previous time, when some member of the family took a chill or a severe pain or probably only a toothache: "If I only had a Hot Water Bottle! I'll not get caught like this again!" $2.00 buys an excellent one at the Chauvin Pharmacy.

OUR SHORT STORY

The Man On Smoky Top

"Think you'll manage all right?" asked the old warden as he shook hands with young Maynard.

"Sure thing," replied the latter. "Good-bye and thanks." Shouldering his pack he turned away up the pine scented trail.

The old man looked after him doubtfully. During his long career as warden in this little corner of the Adirondacks many men of many types had he sent up that winding path to stay from May to October, but never before so well armed, so well bred, so handsome a youth and one so obviously capable of holding down a far harder job than that of ranger on old Smoky Top.

Some time later, arriving at the summit, Sperry Maynard threw down his pack, a door of a small shanty set in a cleared space a few hundred feet square. Adjacent to it was a sort of platform on the top of four poles evidently a look-out. On one of the poles was fastened a telephone box, an incongruous object in the wilderness but necessary in the performance of his duties.

So this was to be his home for five months. Sperry lay down upon his duffel and gave himself up to eating the last of his sandwiches and reviewing the circumstance which had brought him here.

Briefly, it was manual and disillusionment. With more money to spend than he had known what to do with and with generosity which had made him an easy victim of his associates, he had led a spectacular career at college. Then his father had died, increasing his already absurd income.

But he was riding for a fall from the quarter in which he least expected it. He believed his two best friends to be his room mate and the girl he loved as good as engaged to. Coming to his rooms suddenly during the prom festivities he had surprised them in unrequited love making, while ostensibly having tea.

Sperry had left the room, the campus the town. In sudden revulsion he had hummed up an old friend of his father's and asked for a job, only stipulating that it be out of doors and away from the world.

As a result, here he was, the Smoky Top ranger, whose one duty was to sweep the horizon with high powered glasses and by means of the telephone, to report any fires to the fire wardens below.

As May melted into June and June into July, Sperry grew accustomed to his monotonous solitude. At times, however, intense longings for the pleasures and companionship of civilization seized him.

It was just after such a period that a party of men and women from the hotel on the lake below climbed the shanty. First came a dapper, well-dressed man, puffing considerably; a younger man, followed by ladies, two of whom were unbecomingly past the bloom of youth. (Continued on Page Seven)

While crossing water 26 feet deep Dr. J. H. Proctor of Arltland narrowly escaped death. The ice gave way, and Mr. Proctor was drawn through the hole made. If it had not been this simple assistance was at hand our friend would certainly have been drowned; as it was it took three people to get Mr. Proctor to safety. We are glad to say that Jack is none the worse for his thrilling experience.

Thousands of good farmers in the lost provinces of Hungary are anxious to move to Canada to make new homes for themselves and their families, states Dr. Stephen Doboy, commercial-attaché at the Hungarian government, who is in Western Canada now looking into prospects.

Like Tower of Babel

One hundred and thirty-four immigrants, speaking among them 15 different languages, arrived in Winnipeg on November 21st from the steamships "Regina" and "Antonia". The party which included 30 boys for domestic service travelling under Salvation Army auspices, was distributed through the four western provinces.

Ribstone Ladies Aid

The church Anniversary service will be conducted in the church December 16th. Further announcements will be given later.

Many young men are willing to start at the bottom if they may go up in the elevator.

Notes From The North-East

We hear that the Fram Xmas tree has been set for December 21st. Along with the teacher, Mesdames W. Miller, Evanger and Lavold are acting as the committee.

Mixed nuts 20 cents per pound at Sakra.

Stannmore School also on December 21st are having a Xmas tree this year, and all are hoping for a good time.

Mr. and Mrs. Natress family has been increased by the arrival of a son. Both doing well.

A noticeable feature of the St Andrews celebration at Arltland was the presence of so many of our Alberta friends, needless to say, All Scotch.

The car shortage is getting serious, resulting in the elevators being chocked up.

Go to Sakers and see the fine display of Toys and Christmas Presents.

Mineral Mixtures And Meat Hogs For Bacon Hogs

EXPERIMENTAL FARMS NOTE

The availability of mineral matter for the proper nutrition of hogs is of vital importance and the normal demand for such in the development of frame and also in the functioning of the vital processes is strikingly apparent when such is lacking, more particularly with young growing pigs and brood sows.

The lack of an adequate calcium or phosphorus supply is not immediately apparent, but after a more or less and lack of tone in the animal and this followed by decreased production.

Of all classes of livestock hogs suffer more frequently because of their inability to utilize bulky roughages these roughages being a fruitful source from which to draw sufficient mineral constituents to maintain the body requirements. The cereal groups are low in calcium and unless this constituent is supplied from another source such a ration may be found unsatisfactory, if used exclusively. The addition of succulent feeds, such as roots, beet pulp, molasses, etc. and also leguminous roughages such as clover or alfalfa hay is necessary, because of the mineral content of these feeds, among other reasons, and such cannot be too strongly advocated for winter feeding and when pasture crops are not available milk by-products rank high as sources of mineral matter and are a valuable supplement to the grain ration.

Other sources of mineral matter such as bone meal, meat meal, tankage, ground limestone, rock phosphate, fish meal, charcoal, etc. are more expensive but valuable sources upon which to draw.

The exact amount of these last that should be supplied has not been definitely determined. With the object of obtaining some information on this matter, therefore, five lots of hogs totalling in all twenty head were fed on a ration composed of ground oats, 2 parts; ground barley, shorts and middlings, each 1 part; and oil meal 3 per cent, supplemented with skim-milk. Lot 1 was used as a check on the other four lots each of which was fed a mineral meal in a self-feeder; Lot 2 being fed tankage; Lot 3, meat meal; Lot 4, fish meal; and Lot 5, meat and bone meal.

During the first period of 60 days on the above ration the hogs consumed, 5.53 per cent of tankage, 9.45 per cent of meat meal, 4.72 per cent of fish meal and 3.51 per cent of meat and bone fed and with the exception of the last lot made, .03 to .1 of a pound greater daily gains than the check lot. These results indicate the percent of these mineral meals which the hogs consumed when fed the above meal ration supplemented with skim-milk. They also indicate that the hogs which were fed these mineral feeds required somewhat less meal to produce a pound of gain in weight, the check lot requiring 2.29 lbs., the tankage lot 1.94 lbs., the meat meal lot requiring 1.79 lbs., the fish meal 1.96 lbs., and the beef and bone meal 1.53 lbs. of meal to produce a pound of gain while the milk consumed was 5.38 pounds for the check lot and an average of 4.88 for the mineral-fed lots per pound of gain produced.

Wintering In Britain

Residents of all the western provinces were among a party of nearly 200 persons who left Winnipeg by Canadian National trains on November 21st to embark on the White Star liners "Regina" and "Antonia" at Montreal to spend their winter holidays in Great Britain.

Open-Door Immigration

Partial removal, at least, of the barriers against immigration to Canada is expected to result from the conference between federal and provincial officials in Ottawa during the week. Prospects are that Canada, during next summer will be called on to welcome a flood of immigration the like of which has not been approached since the pre-war period.

Everybody's business—to mind his own.

CHILDISH PHILOSOPHY

A little girl aged six was asked what was the difference between pride and vanity.

After a little consideration she replied, "Pride means, I don't think much of you"; vanity means, 'What do you think of me?'"

COOL HEADEDNESS SAVES PROPERTY AND PERSONS

We are reminded again of the ever present danger of fire by the upsetting of a coal oil stove at the sale of work at Chauvin last Saturday afternoon.

Thanks to the promptitude of several persons no damage was done; and thanks also to the cool-headedness of those in charge there was no panic or rush to the door with consequent injury to life and limbs.

NATURE PROVIDES FIRE FIGHTING MATERIAL

There is absolutely no excuse for the absence of fire protection in any building public or private; in Chauvin, where the fire fighting material is so liberally provided by nature and trees right at our very doorstep.

There is no better protection in the early stages of a fire than a bucket of dry sand thrown upon the outbreak. If every occupant of a Chauvin building was to go out and gather two buckets of clean dry sand we should have good protection.

Forget It

If you see a tall fellow ahead of a crowd.

A leader of men, marching fearless and proud.
And you know of a tale whose mere telling aloud

Would cause his proud head to in anguish be bowed.

It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

If you know of a skeleton hidden away
In a closet, and guarded, and kept from the day
In the dark; and whose showing,

whose sudden display

Would cause grief and sorrow and lifelong dismay—

It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

Stand on your own feet: if you do not, some else will.

Guided by intelligence, a strong will is the greatest of blessings; the servant of stupidity, it is nothing but a curse.

The courage to take hold when all looks promising may be largely hope and enthusiasm. The holding on when the prospect has grown dark and the way is hard is something far braver and stronger.

It is the tragedy of our country that we all mean so well, and do so badly.

Berry And Coe Nominated For Manitou Lake Reeve

the efforts to get the Government Grant spent where Council wanted, which came to nothing, the government sending their own men and getting the work done in the wrong place. Authorization for proper expenditure in the right place came to late despite the Reeves efforts. The heavy cost of surveys during the year was explained. He mentioned the matter of a new safe or strong room. Hospitals, unfairness of Hospital payments, no provision in act for paying maintenance. Only Municipality paying is Tramping Lake for maternity cases. Only other Municipalities paying nothing. We pay $2.00 per day for patients and have to pay for patients from other municipalities. He recommended that the new council be asked to do carefully into the matter. In reply to a question he explained in what way it was compulsory to support a union Hospital scheme. Mr. Berry moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Chapman for his long and faithful service to the Municipality as Reeve. Mr. Bradley explained that assessors and J. W. Coe having added a few remarks Mr. Chapman feelingly replied: would be raised next year to equalize taxation generally.

Discussion took place on Hospital matters.

Elections by acclamation were: A. Wells, Division 2.
H. Smith, Division 4.
W. M. Bradley, Division 6.
Nominations for Reeve: W. L. Berry,
J. W. Coe.

How many of the things over which we fret and strive are really among life's unessentials? We lose sleep and peace of mind over trifles that do not matter, and meanwhile let the weightier questions slip by unnoticed.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear friend, Edward V. Carter, dearly beloved wife of Stanley K. Carter, Artland, who passed away on the 9th, of December 1922 at the Unity Hospital, Sask. Deeply regretted.

Funeral Service at La Pearl

(Contributed)

A funeral service for the late James Morrison, who died November 6 1923, was held in La Pearl church in Sunday November 25th. The service which was well attended was conducted by Rev. Mitchellson, who based his remarks on Rev. 14:13. Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth, ye saith the Spirit that they may rest from their labors and their works do follow them.

The preacher said in effect, "If the ordinary person death is a terror. But to the Christian death has lost its terror. It releases him as absent from the body to be present with the Lord. The apostle Paul could ask "O death where is thy sting? O grave where is thy victory?" He thanks God which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ. He also repeatedly consoles...

The speaker touched on the outstanding characteristics of Mr. Morrison, finding him to be a Christian gentleman, sound in morals, discriminating right and wrong. As a business man, very industrious, and an example to younger men. A conscientious worshiper of his Saviour, not being carried away by the wind of doctrine or the slight of men's craftiness. His faith was an anchor, of the soul, sure, steadfast and unmovable.

James Morrison was born in Ireland in 1842, came to Shewsbury, P.Q. in 1846. He remained a citizen of that province till 1906, when he came west. He had two sons and four daughters, one of whom, Mrs. Hugh Morrison died in 1920. The three sons Hugh and Henry, and three daughters, Mrs. J. McCluskey, Mrs. E.D. McCluskey and Mrs. D. Moncrieff, with many other relatives mourn his loss.

Burned To Death

Jack Eyearhouse, Blacksmith of Almarie, was burned to death in a fire which destroyed his shack Saturday December last. It appears Eyearhouse was using coal oil or gasoline to start a fire in the stove. An explosion followed with fatal result.

Eyearhouse was a single man. His parents living in the States.

The car shortage was directly resented on the streets and in the stores last Saturday afternoon. Money is moving very slowly and not much cash is available for buying winter supplies and Christmas luxuries.

The splendid weather of the past month has been very beneficial to live stock which are generally reported to be in fine shape. The coal bills have been considerably reduced and the only fly in the ointment is the lack of opportunity to haul during the fine weather owing to car shortage.

Good Times At The St Andrews Celebration At Artland: Friday

On Friday evening last the Artland School was packed with a crowd mostly Scotch, desirous of paying homage to St. Andrew, at the same time hoping to swell the coffers of the Artland ladies sewing club, under whose auspices the entertainment was arranged. A capital program was carried out under the capable chairmanship of Mr. McDonald the editor of the Unity Courier and President of the Suck, Newspaper Association. To attempt to discriminate amongst the artists would be a task, at least too great a one for the writer, as one and all did splendidly, and received generous recognition from the great gathering. Jeff Swan with his pipes, the Misses McSpornan with their Highland dances and songs, along with Mrs. Watson, Mrs. Merritt, and Mrs. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Smith and Mrs. McSpornan, to say nothing of the readings and recitations by Mrs. Harry Scott and Miss Jensen.

After lunch had been handed round by the ladies, dancing was indulged in, and the music was up to the high standard that the district has set this year, and although there was an attempt to confine the dances to Scotch only, better counsels prevailed, and the remainder of the evening passed in perfect harmony, and the entertainment can take its place among the many successes attained by the district.

The quilt was won by an employee of the C.N.R. The balance sheet has not yet been made public, but it is certain that a handsome surplus was raised over expenses.

Manitou Lake Ladies Aid

One hears, with regret, of the resignation of the President of the Manitou Lake Ladies Aid (Mrs. R. E. Watson). Head of the A'id, since its inception Mrs. Watson has seen its rise to the position it occupies today. From practically nothing, the last balance in hand was round $100, and we hope the Association will carry on as successfully in the future despite the loss they have sustained.

Storage Increased

Wheat handling facilities at the port of Banuover have been increased to the extent of 100,000 bushels additional storage. This will be a help from that city.

Immigration Increase

An increase of approximately 100 per cent over the corresponding period of last year, is shown by immigration figures for the first nine months of 1923, according to official figures issued from Ottawa. During the first nine months of this year 106,973 new entrants were brought to Canada and it is anticipated that of this number fully 100,000 will be permanent settlers.

The third brought up the rear and at given Sperry did not notice her. Then as he caught a glimpse of her beautiful face beneath the soft sport hat, he paled beneath his tan. But on the girl's part there was no trace of recognition. "I say," said the elderly gentleman. "Do you have many fires?"

Sperry managed a reply. "Some times one a day. Sometimes not for a week."

"What would you do if you were surrounded here?" This question was from the elder woman. Perpetual asking of it from other tourists had given Sperry a ready answer. "Probably be killed," he said cheerfully. He always gave the proper touch of romance to his situation when they demanded.

"Oh," said the girl softly, her brown eyes filled with horror. Sperry could see now that resemblance to another, at first so striking, was really only intermittent as her expressions changed. Long after their departure, Sperry thought of the visitors, particularly of the girl and the young man. Were they engaged, or possibly, married?

A week later they came again, with variations in the personnel of her party, but still the same couple. This time Sperry deliberately, yet unostentatiously, made conversation with her. Just before they left the girl said suddenly, "I am coming up again." That was all, but the knowledge was a bright gleam in the dull monotony of his lonely days.

Many times she came and always with the personable youth, who seemed to have established himself as the girl's bodyguard. Little by little Sperry found that she was not married; that friends; that she was not married; that her name was Barbara. And Sperry, who thought he was done with love at twenty-three, presently reached the stage where his first walking thought was, "Why, she came today?"

Then came the long dry spell of August. Sperry was kept busy reporting fires. The very air became yellow with smoke haze, and for days at a time the lake below was not visible.

One morning Sperry stopped in the act of cutting down a dead tree to sniff the air. Certainly the air was unusually acrid. A glance through the glasses reported nothing, yet Sperry had a feeling that the fire was not far away.

Running down the trail, he observed that the density of the smoke was increasing. Coming out on a little knoll, he saw an opaque cloud of smoke settle on an adjacent shoulder of the mountain. Here and there it was shot with flame.

His trained eye, however, saw that the wind was taking it away from the summit, and that it would probably burn itself out when it reached the edge of the cliff. Returning, he reported the fire to the warden.

Late that afternoon, Sperry sat smoking an old pipe. Suddenly he heard a rustle in the trail behind him. Turning he waited. Was it a deer or had someone been foolish enough to climb the mountain, mcnaced as it was by fire?

Thunderstruck, he gazed at the girl who stumbled toward him. Her wealth of hair tumbling about her shoulders her expression one of relief tinged with embarrassment. Barbara advanced, a most intriguing figure in boyish jacketbootees, and gray flannel slacks.

"I was riding," she explained, "and I saw the summit was all smoky and I wondered—" she broke off in confusion.

"You came up here to see if— if everything was all right?"

She nodded.

"Why that was—well, awfully good of you," said Sperry gratefully.

She turned to go. She was beginning to feel, as well as he, the unusualness of the situation. "I left my horse at the foot of the trail," she volunteered. "I am going home tomorrow."

His heart sank. "I am sorry to hear that. Your visits up here have meant—well, more than I could make you understand. I had gotten out of touch with the world, and came up here to forget many things."

Was one of them my sister Evelyn? she asked calmly.

Sperry turned in amazement. So that was where the resemblance came from. "How did you know?" he demanded.

"Oh, I always used to examine the pictures of good-looking men she kept on her dresser. And I picked up stray bits here and there which led me to think she hadn't used you quite right. But tell me, do you still think of her? She asked wistfully. "You know she is married."

"Quite the contrary," said Sperry slowly. "The mountain winds have swept away her memory along with many other things. In their place they have brought me a wonderful dream. When they rustle in the grass, I imagine it is the stir of her dress, and when they whisper in the pines I play I am listening to her dear voice." The man waited, telling her with his eyes what he did not dare to put into words.

Styly Barbara put a slim young hand on his arm. "Years ago I fell in love with your picture, and when I saw you up here and recognized you for the first time, I knew you were much nicer than your photograph."

"Do you mean—Barbara?" and so the word his arm were about her.

A little later, when he had taken her down to her horse, he gave her the last kiss before the temporary separation. "I hoped to find myself on old Smoky Top," he whispered. "I little dreamed I would find you."

STUDEBAKER LIGHT-SIX

Studebaker's vast resources are utilized to manufacture (not assemble) the Light-Six complete in the newest and most modern large automobile plants in the world.

Resources, consisting of $30,000,000 of actual net assets, together with $45,000,000 of plants, make it possible for Studebaker to offer you a six-cylinder car, at less than $1500, that is emphatically superior in design, construction and performance to any car within hundreds of dollars of its price.

By complete manufacture, Studebaker not only guards the quality of each part, but saves the middle-man's profits, with the result that no other make of car ever built, by anyone, at any price, represents so great a dollar-for-dollar value as the Light-Six.

Evidence of its mechanical superiority is found in its practical freedom from vibration. This is accomplished by its perfect engine balance secured through machining the Light-Six crankshaft and connecting rods on all surfaces. This requires 61 precision operations. No other car in Canada selling for less than $3,500 follows this practice.

It is significant, therefore, that the sale of $1,830 Studebaker cars during the first six months of this year broke all records. Buyers are justified in expecting more for their money in a Studebaker than in any other car.

Sale Of Work Makes Over $200; Workers Receive Good Support

The Oddfellows Hall, Chauvin presided an animated appearance last Saturday afternoon. This being the occasion of the sale of work and cooking held under the auspices of the Westminster Ladies Aid.

There was a hearty response by all to the efforts of these ladies, and as a result the profits are larger than those of last year—over sixty dollars. At the time of going to press, the final figures were not available, but over $220 it is expected will go to meet the needed funds.

The stalls were loaded with a choice selection of plain and fancy needlework, whilst tables were laid out in charming manner for serving refreshments and suppers. The children found lots of fun in the lucky dips, and also had a good display of pretty things on the children's stall.

Will the who took away sealers and pie plates, please return when empty to Forryan's Store, where the owners can obtain them.

Notes From Edgerton

The annual meeting of shareholders of Edgerton and Battle River Telephone Co. will be held in Bloomington school on January 3rd 1924.

What has happened to our "Pelican" who came upon the scene with such a flourish? It cannot be Latin?

Will the Chauvin mill kindly state if we can take wheat for flour. A lot would make the trip if it can be done in one day.

Some elevators seem to have made up their minds to take in nothing but grade 3 while the car shortage lasts. It would be interesting to see their returns.

But if it wasn't for these terrible winters!

Who was the first man on his homestead south of the river. The writer gives his advent as Oct. 1905, to encourage those who can beat it.

What shall we prohibit next? How would it be if the unco-god get busy and made it illegal for a farmer to work for nix.

Death And Funeral Of Mrs. Olandro Rockey

A dark cloud of sorrow hangs over Prospect Valley, owing to the Death of Mrs. O. Rockey, which took place at the Alexandra hospital Edgerton on Sunday November 25th. at 1.30 p.m. Mrs. Rockey had been ill for some months before going to the hospital, where she underwent two operations which were unsuccessful.

The remains were brought to the home of her son Mr. Wilson Rockey, at Prospect Valley. The funeral service which took place on November 28th was attended by a large number of friends and relatives who assembled to pay their last tribute of respect to one who had always been ready to minister to the sick, on matter at what hour she was needed.

Mr. Mitchelson, the minister conducted the service and chose for his text, the 13 verse of the 12th Chapter of Daniel "For thou shalt rest and stand in thy lot at the end of thy days. The preacher said in effect, The triumphs of our labors are purchased on the Cross. Death may rob us of our worldly possessions. Honor or fame. One thing it could not do—rob us of our inheritance with the saints in light. We who love Christ can say, Oh, death where is thy sting, Oh, grave where is thy victory.

Mrs. Rockey was indeed a daughter of Israel. In her younger days Her place will be difficult to fill for she had herself on the altar of sacrifice. She passed through many a rugged road and mountain pass of suffering.

Mrs. Rockey was born at Aylmer Ont. 63 years ago. She came West with her husband in 1907. She leaves besides her husband, her son, Mr. Wilson Rockey and his wife and family. Her brother, Mr. Darling and Basil Murray to mourn her loss.

Thanks are due to the following gentlemen who conveyed the mourners to the grave in Edgerton cemetery, where a short service was held. Pond, Byers and Straus. The pallbearers were Messrs Lasells, Tizzard, Spencer, Leagert, Byers and Hoffen. Many friends sent beautiful floral tributes.
